VOLUME III, No. 50 Wednesday, October 7, 1981

Members of the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School and Lindsay High School soccer team are airborne as they attempt to head the ball during a game Wednesday. The senior Redmen went down to a 7-0 defeat at the hands of the visitors while the junior team managed a 1-1 tie. Joe Lopresti scored the only goal for the Haliburton team. The teams are coached by teachers Paul Morissette and Bob Penfold. The squads travel to Fenelon Falls for games Wednesday afternoon.

Four injured in auto mishap

A two car accident Friday evening in Haliburton Village has seriously injured one person and resulted in minor injuries to another three.

The mishap, which took place on Highway 121 in front of the high school, occurred when a car driven by Pam Iles, 18, of Haliburton, crossed in front of an approaching vehicle driven by Munir Jan, 53, of Don Mills, and was struck broadside. The Iles vehicle had gone out of control on the wet pavement.

A passenger in the Iles car, 17 year old David Bishop of Haliburton was seriously injured in the mishap. He was taken to Haliburton Red Cross Hospital and later transferred to Sick Children's Hospital in Toronto for treatment. Iles suffered less severe injuries and was treated at the Haliburton facility.

Also injured and treated in Haliburton was the driver of the second car and a passenger in that vehicle.

The accident took place shortly before 9 p.m.

The Iles vehicle sustained $10,000 damage while the Jan car had $3500 damage as a result of the collision.

Police have charged Iles with failure to share half the roadway and failing to wear a seat belt.

Constable Wim Magee of the Minden OPP detachment investigated the accident.

Shirts taken

The Rockcliffe Hotel sweatshirts have become such a collector's item that some people appear willing to steal just to get their hands on a few.

That seems to be the situation following a report September 28 that 46 of the shirts were removed from the hotel's storage room. The theft is believed to have taken place Saturday evening.

The pilfered shirts were grey with wine coloured trim and had the "Rockcliffe University '82" insignia marked on them.

The investigation of the theft is continuing with Constable Mike Maher in charge.

Bicroft chairman dies on Saturday

Meredith Amm, member of the Haliburton County Council from the Improvement District of Bicroft near Cardiff, died suddenly Saturday. Mr. Amm was 68 years old.

He had served as Chairman of the Improvement District since January 1979. The position is filled by appointment by the provincial government.

Amm had been a resident of the Bicroft area when the area was a thriving mining centre. He left to spend 12 years in Newfoundland and returned to the area in 1978. Prior to spending the 12 years in Newfoundland, he had served as secretary of the Improvement Board. His position on the board will be filled by the vice chairman William G. Howe.

While few individuals outside of politics on this side of the county knew Mr. Amm, his contribution to the county as a unit was important. He served as the local representative on the Peterborough, Victoria and Haliburton Children's Aid Society. Earlier this year he was elected to the post of second vice president of the organization. According to the president of the board of directors for the society, Judy Kyle, this was the first time a municipal politician had been elected to the position of vice president in the organization's history.

Kyle, speaking from her home in Ennismore, said the Children's Aid Society would be poorer without Mr. Amm. "He was held in great esteem by the other members of the board and the staff of the society," Kyle stated. "I've never seen such an outpouring of love and concern by staff and board members," she said. Kyle said that many of the members would be attending the memorial service planned for Wednesday.

The society president noted that it was through Mr.

There certainly wasn't much in the way of pleasant weather during the month of September. But, as the average temperatures show, with only four-tenths of a degree difference, it was much the same as last year. Rainfall was up considerably over September 1980.

Ice racing moved to town

Car racing on ice, one of the major attractions of the Kinsmen Winter Carnival each year, will be moved back into Minden from South Lake. Representatives of the club received permission from Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council September 24 to stage the races at the fairgrounds.

According to Paul Travers, spokesman for the club, the group plans to construct a temporary track at the fairgrounds which would be used by cars and snowmobiles. He said that staging the event at South Lake split the attractions of the winter carnival and reduced the effectiveness of the club's manpower in holding the event. He said there would be no night racing and the club would purchase the necessary insurance for the events.

"We want to make the arena area the centre of attraction for the carnival," he added.

The club has also requested that the municipality waive the usual rental fee for the arena for the winter carnival. As in the past, the council agreed to forego the $1200 rental.

CAS opens office in Haliburton

Pat Cavanagh, new CAS worker

A social worker will now be located permanently in Haliburton county according to an announcement from the Kawartha-Haliburton Children's Aid Society.

Mr. Pat Cavanagh has recently moved into his office located at the Good Medical Centre in Haliburton.

Prior to coming to Haliburton, Pat worked in Fort Smith, North West Territories as area supervisor with the Department of Social Services. The main program areas included child welfare, foster homes, group homes and adoption. This agency also acted as a main referral source in steering individuals to the appropriate services. The Haliburton County community will benefit from this past experience and knowledge in working with a broad range of services.

Pat is familiar with the Haliburton area having worked here during the summer months while attending University. Pat received his Masters Degree in Applied Criminology from the University of Ottawa.

Pat, his wife Rita, two daughters and a son are presently residing in the Minden area.

Up to now, the service in Haliburton has been based in Lindsay with Bruce Watson working in Haliburton County, two to three days per week and the remaining time being spent in Victoria County. Bruce has provided services to Haliburton since January, 1980 when Mr. Ernie Eakins retired.

Mr. Watson's main responsibilities had included working with children and families in their own homes, working with children residing in foster homes, and group homes. He will carry on these child welfare duties on a fulltime basis in Victoria County. Bruce also served on various committees in Haliburton, such as the Social Planning Council, and with the local advisory board subcommittee for the Children's Services Steering Committee. All these duties will now be taken on by Pat.

Pat's responsibilities will include most areas of child welfare and community development. He is interested in participating with individuals and groups to develop new services as the need arises and to assist in improving existing services to meet the needs of the community. Pat states that his approach to the new job is a gradual one and he looks forward to meeting people in the community and discussing the services which the Children's Aid Society provides.

The public can contact Pat by phoning 457-1661 or writing to Box 120 Haliburton.

Pat would also encourage individuals to stop by the office if they prefer.

The romance of Harlequin paperbacks started here in the Haliburton Highlands

Harlequin romances.

For some, the paperback books which they buy off the racks at grocery, drug and corner stores are just the right tonic to fill the empty hours of the day. For others they are a waste of time, pulp fiction with predictable plots and two dimensional characters.

However, for one resident of Minden, the books which have become synonomous with broken hearts and unrequited love, they hold a special significance even though he rarely reads them.

Cy Heal, retired artist and entrepreneur was closely associated with the launching of the Harlequin Romance series in the early 1940's and drew the cover illustrations which appeared on many of the first editions.

Cy is a native of Wales who moved to Canada with his family of three sisters and one brother in 1928. As a youth he had shown a great deal of interest in art, an interest which was encouraged by his teacher, who continued to help him even after he had left school. His career, though not always directly related to art, followed a course which kept him in touch with visual expression.

Prior to the war he worked as a sculptor in a bronze foundry. Later, when the hostilities started, he made mechanical drawings for anti-aircraft guns and naval dials at a photo engravers in Toronto.

During the early years of the war he and his first wife would vacation in the Haliburton Highlands, spending several summers at Deer Lodge on Lake Kashagawigamog.

Highlands memories

He has fond memories of the summers on the lake. It was before the time of television, in an era when people seemed to spend more time entertaining each other.

It was during one of these summer vacations that Cy met Jack Palmer. He worked with a religious publishing house in Scotland and made his living selling Bibles.

Palmer told Cy of his idea to start publishing paperback books under the Harlequin name. On learning of his artistic background, Palmer asked Cy is he wanted to prepare a number of the cover illustrations. The two agreed to co-operate and Cy was in on the start of one of the most successful publishing ventures of the century.

"I never read any of the books," Cy admits candidly. "Jack Palmer would provide me with an outline of the story and suggest a couple of possible scenes that might be portrayed on the cover. The rest was left up to me."

Working with models who would pose for the main action of the illustration, Cy completed a cover in an evening. Even in those early days Harlequin was a prolific publishing house and Cy was soon turning out up to six covers a month.

Designed logo

"I also designed the Harlequin symbol which is still used on the books today," Cy commented. The word Harlequin refers to a character in an Italian comedy or a mute character in English pantomine usually seen dressed in checkered tights. "I adapted the illustration from a dictionary and placed it in a diamond frame," Cy explained.

Following the war Cy opened a free lance art business and at times was a retailer of farm equipment, photography and photo static services. He worked in silk screening, continued to draw and sold household appliances.

Prior to improvements in colour photography reproduction Cy would often be hired to draw plaid seat covers for Canadian Tire catalogues, Persian rugs for Simpson catalogues, cut-away drawings from blueprints and helped to design various product labels.

When he retired in 1973 at the age of 57, Cy was vice president and senior art director at the Ronald Reynolds advertising agency in Toronto. He and his second wife Gala moved to Minden following his retirement and they have been summer residents here ever since.

Looking over the recent releases from the Harlequin company, now an important part of the Torstar (Toronto Star) operation, Cy thinks the covers lack character. "I don't think they should have the same artist doing all the cover illustrations. The style should change. They should use more variety," he states. The cover illustrations now appear to have an ethereal dream-like quality to them. "The people we drew had more character. The villains had a hard look to their face and stance," Cy states.

Coincidence

A number of years ago an interesting coincidence occurred. Cy was attending an auction at the Henderson Farm in Blairhampton. "To my surprise, in the crowd I met an old friend, Chris St. Clair. His son, who had bought the property, was also an artist. As we talked it came to light that the man's son was going to use a part of the old house as an art studio and some of his work would involve drawing cover illustrations for Harlequin Books.

"You can imagine my surprise to find that almost 35 years later, the aspect of the book's preparation had come back to the Haliburton Highlands where it first started." The artist has since moved away.

Despite the fact that he has more time now, Cy still has little interest in the Harlequin books, although he does enjoy reading. His association with the company has long since been broken.

From time to time he notes reports of the company on the financial pages of the Toronto Star or other pages. He is impressed by the growth of the company which is now reaching into many foreign language markets. But no matter how far the new company may expand, the idea for those first covers and the Harlequin logo were struck here in the Haliburton Highlands.

Cy Heal drew some of the first covers.

First teen dance planned for Oct. 23

Minden teens appear to be on their way to starting a new monthly entertainment feature.

At a meeting Thursday evening, a committee was elected to oversee the operation of a monthly dance at the community centre. Heading the executive is Brent Murdock. He will be assisted by Scott Young and Chris Anderson as well as a host of other volunteers who offered their services to help get the idea started.

The meeting, organized by Linda Pentney drew 30 youths and eight adults. Both age groups endorsed the idea enthusiastically and plans are now underway to hold the first dance October 23.

According to Linda Pentney, the dances will be organized and run by the teens. "The success of the venture will depend on the effort they put into it and the support they receive from others in the community." She noted that strict rules concerning alcohol and drugs will be enforced at the dance and anyone caught breaking the regulations will be banned from future dances.

Adults will be in attendance at each of the functions and will be available to the executive for assistance in planning. "However, the responsibility for the success of the venture rests solely with the teenagers," Pentney said.

A price of $2.50 has been set for the first dance. Professional disc jockey Tommy Williamson has agreed to donate his services for the evening. The rental of the community centre has also been reduced to give the fledgling organization a chance to get operational.

Linda said she was pleased with the attendance at the Thursday meeting. She said the teenagers were enthusiastic about the idea and were looking forward to the first dance.

Tender to be called for wood

Excess ceiling panelling left over from the construction of the new library-cultural centre will be sold by public tender even though the material is believed to be worth not more than $100.00. The decision to sell the material by tender was made at the Thursday evening meeting of council after the councillors were asked to sell it by one individual, David Phillips of Minden.

Several citizens in the audience objected to the method by which council was selling municipal property. Bernie Davis suggested that the wood should be made available to all citizens by tender.

The 1 by 4 by three-quarter inch tongue and groove pine boards were left over after it was decided that several ceilings in the new complex should be made of gyprock. Approximately 520 board feet of lumber is available.

The council was asked by Gary Kenney whether it was not setting a "dangerous precedent" in offering to sell the lumber without allowing other residents to bid on it.

Several councillors questioned whether it was worth the advertising expense, which they estimated at $35, to sell the wood which might draw less than $100 in return. (The council was then informed that a classified tender for the material would probably cost not more than $10.)

The council agreed to advertise the item for sale so that all citizens of the community could have a fair chance to bid on the item.

Committee to oversee building

A supervisory directorate has been formed to oversee the operation of the new Minden Library-Cultural Centre. The group, drawing its members from all organizations involved in the building, was formed Monday evening.

The directorate replaces the joint committee which oversaw the construction of the new building on Bobcaygeon Road north. Representing the library on the new directorate will be Mae Wolfraim and Shirley McGee, for the art gallery will be Donna Monk and Agnes Jamieson. Wendy Wilkins and Aileen Blears will represent the museum committee.

Two representatives of the Minden and District Seniors are included on the directorate. They are the president Isabel Harrison and the treasurer Bob Herlihey. Amos Brubacher will be the Horticultural Society representative while the Minden Women's Institute will be represented by Mary Cox.

Both the Women's Institute and the Horticultural Society will be using the common room at the facility for their meetings. The seniors group will also be meeting there and have applied for a New Horizons grant to help furnish the common room.

One member of the township council will also sit on the supervisory directorate.

The body will oversee the operation of the structure as a unit while each of the various committees will be responsible for activities within their areas.

Amm's perserverance that a society worker was finally located, on a permanent basis, in Haliburton County. "He tried to impress upon the board the need for a permanent worker in the county," Kyle stated. "Through his interest and influence, the board was able to free enough money from other projects to fund a worker for the county."

(The resident CAS worker just recently opened his office in Haliburton Village. An article elsewhere in today's paper outlines the new service.)

Mr. Amm is survived by his wife Dorothy (Dodd) and daughters Joyce Granger of Newfoundland and Sandra Jones of Newcastle. Also surviving are seven grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held today (October 7) at the St. John's Anglican Church in Bancroft, at 3 p.m.

Editorial

An element of trust

At the September 24 meeting, the Anson, Hindon and Minden township council was forced into a position it may later regret. The council was approached by a citizen of the community who wished to purchase some material left over from the construction of the new library - cultural centre. It was estimated at the time that the material was worth approximately $100 retail.

The council was prepared to strike a bargain for the goods when several members of the audience intervened. They questioned whether the goods should not be sold through public tender so all members of the municipality, not just those who knew the material is available, have a chance to bid on it. The theory is good and based on sound principles, but it is lacking in foresight.

The councillors bowed to the pressure of those in attendance and agreed to put the material up for tender at a cost of about $10 for advertising.

The council was elected to make decisions, to spend money, and represent the citizens of the community for the common good. Implicit in that election procedure is the delegation of a degree of trust on the part of the residents to the elected officials. And that trust, we think, includes the buying and selling of material in the best interests of all concerned.

We recognize there is a certain dollar value at which the council should be required to use tendering procedures for the purchase or sale of material. The council might consider formally setting that point, for example at $1000. But, if we can't trust elected representatives to represent the community's interests fairly in matters of nominal value, then there is little point in selecting individuals to manage the municipality for us.

The council was wrong to bend to the pressure from the gallery at the last meeting.

It may find in the future that the sale and purchase of goods for the township could become extremely cumbersome if every time they are forced to do so by tender, no matter what the value.

A fitting reminder

Haliburton County Council has lost an outspoken supporter with the death of Meredith Amm, chairman of the Improvement District of Bicroft. He was an energetic and eager supporter of his end of the county and drew the admiration of fellow councillors when he rose to speak at the monthly meetings.

Amm obviously enjoyed speaking at the meetings as most politicians do. He often entertained the councillors with witty comments that left everyone with a smile but also got his point across.

He was most active as Haliburton's representative on the Children's Aid Society which serves this county, Victoria and Peterborough County and the City of Peterborough. He saw the CAS through a major re-organization and was instrumental in helping to negotiate the first union contract for the society employees.

Meredith Amm was not that well known outside of municipal politics on this side of the county. But his efforts on the part of all citizens of the county will be remembered. Just several weeks before he died a resident case worker opened his office in Haliburton. He will be serving the county on a full-time basis, something which has been needed for a long time.

The CAS office for Haliburton County had been a worthy objective for which Meredith Amm had worked for a long time. Its existence today serves as a fitting reminder of the chairman of the Improvement District of Bicroft.

Something old, something new

This is Fire Prevention Week

A message from Minden Fire Chief, William Jackson.

October 4th to October 10th, 1981, has been designated by the federal government as Fire Prevention Week.

It has been our experience in the past few years that this program has paid dividends because of a decline in the fire loss per capita in our area. This has come about through a better understanding of fire causes and a means of preventing them by the public.

We also believe that our work with the children in our public schools has had significant results. These students have become very aware of fire and its causes and quite knowledgeable about how fires can be prevented.

We base this on the reports we get from the Fire Marshall's Office. For example, in 1976 the per capita loss by fire in our municipality was $22.35 as compared to 1978 when the per capita loss had dropped to $10.12. Although our cost of maintaining a fire department has risen from $3.58 per capita to $12.38 per capita, we must take into consideration the fact that in that period we have built a new fire hall, added a tanker pumper and about $5,000.00 worth of new but necessary equipment. This, along with the rising cost of operations (i.e. gasoline, electricity, insurance, etc.), has increased our costs greatly.

Your fire department is most grateful for the interest and effort which the public has given in fire prevention. As the old adage says:- "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." We look forward to and thank you for your co-operation in the future.

Wishing you all a fire free year.

Federation of Ontario Naturalists

Did you know that Ontario provincial parks cover an area almost as large as Scotland? While much of that area is in the far north, the management of such a land base, and of the ten million visitors to Ontario parks every year, is a complex process. A few weeks ago, the heart of that process was scrapped, with the decision that all work on park master planning will be stopped.

Don't expect an official announcement on this major change in direction. The decision to terminate parks planning was made internally in the Ministry of Natural Resources, without any kind of public or even Ministerial review, and the officials involved are unlikely to advertise their unpopular stance. In fact, the axing of the master plan program became public only when an internal memo from Bill Foster, the Deputy Minister of Natural Resources, somehow found its way into the hands of the conservation groups.

Preparation of master plans to protect fragile natural areas and wildlife and to guide recreational development in all 131 Ontario parks had long been a priority of the Ministry. As recently as last October, the Minister publicly committed to complete master planning by 1983. But now with only 29 master plans approved and 36 more in various stages of preparation, Bill Foster's internal decree will contradict his Minister's promise.

Foster's rationale was reportedly to free up funds for hard-pressed operating and maintenance budgets, but so far there is no evidence to suggest that park managers will see extra money. Instead, the park planning staff have been instructed to work on other planning duties.

Without master planning, we can expect to see the level of conflict over the use of parks escalate. We can expect more blunders, such as the building of a park road over rare plants in Ipperwash, or the bulldozing of the sand dunes in the Pinery. And we can expect a slow-down in development of new picnic areas and campsites because the necessary plans are not available.

GIVE THANKS

The following message for the Thanksgiving celebration was prepared by Father George Elliott of St. Pauls Anglican Church in Minden.

One of the common customs associated with our Thanksgiving Day holiday is the gathering of family and friends around the harvest table to share in the fruits of the land and to offer thanks for health, food, shelter, and perhaps even thanks to God who provides us with all we have. We do, however, need to be realistic about things in this day and age because giving thanks to God will be missing in many of these family get togethers. For many, the fact that God exists and is creator and giver of all, is either forgotten or rejected. They just can't see how God fits into a world filled with science and technology. There is no room for the 'hocus pocus' of religious practice which always seems to interfere with weekend activities or evening relaxation. There will still be the turkey, stuffed to the gills, accompanied by mashed potatoes, turnips, peas, and gravy to be followed by pumpkin pie heaped with thick whipped cream. There will still be the joy and happiness that seems so spontaneous when family and friends gather together for a feast. Unfortunately, the original sense of thanksgiving will be overlooked or slipped quietly into a corner and forgotten.

To me this is a shame, especially for those of us who are fortunate to be part of this great Dominion of Canada. Our forefathers came to this land filled with hopes for the future. After the explorers and the fur traders, our land was settled by many who were religious refugees fleeing from persecution. They came here hoping to find freedom. Then came those who fled their homeland because of famine and pestilence. They also came filled with hope, believing Canada to be a land of abundance and peace. These very forests of Haliburton County were hewed out and settled. Land was cleared, stones removed, and crops planted. With the first frosts of fall the harvests were gathered and thanksgiving was offered to the one certain and constant thing in their life, their Father in heaven.

I don't know if you have ever stopped to think about the hardships that many endured in those early days. some of you in fact, are old enough to remember your experiences of pioneering the homestead. Much of this County was settled by War Veterans who were given Crown land when they finished their tour of duty in either the British or Canadian armies. They no doubt dreamed of fertile valleys, lush orchards laden with fruit, and barns filled to the rafters with feed for the winter. Experience soon taught them otherwise. The land first had to be cleared, an arduous and back-breaking task today, so it must have been agonizing back then. Then the horse attempted to pull a plough through rocky soil that was thin and often infertile. More than once the ploughman found the plough yanked out of his hands by a huge boulder hidden under the surface of the land.

The crops were thin, the harvests mediocre, yet they stuck it out and prospered. I've been told that not so long ago milk tins filled to the brim lined the County roads each day waiting to be picked up by the dairy wagon. Perserverance, guts, courage, call it what you like, these men and women, our forefathers, provided for us with their blood and sweat, the very foundations of the good life that we enjoy today.

At the very centre of their lives was God. The County is not scattered with Churches because people like to build them. No! They are here because these pioneers recognized and acknowledged the rightful place God had in their daily lives. The fruits of the harvest in good or bad years, or the profits of a shrewd business deal, were shared with God and offered to aid in the nurture and care of his people. These men and women knew they had no control over rain, or snow, or frost, or sunshine. Epidemics of diptheria and 'flu swept across their communities, leaving death and anguish behind them. When all seemed lost of hopeless, when life loaded all its hardships on their shoulders at once. these folk knew that there was hope - hope beyond their wildest dreams, in the One who came to share their load, and indeed, carry the burden for them.

Almost two thousand years ago, in an upper room in Jerusalem, there was a thanksgiving meal. A man named Jesus gathered his friends around a table. He took a loaf of bread gave thanks to his Father in heaven, broke the bread, and gave it to his friends to eat. He also took wine, gave thanks, and gave it to them to drink. Since that day, the Church has continued to break bread and drink wine around a common table in remembrance of this Jesus, the Son of God. It is not surprising to find that one of the names for this Christian Family meal comes from the Greek work 'eucharisto' which means 'thanksgiving'. It is indeed a service of thanksgiving, as in the Eucharist we thank God not only for the gifts of creation, but also for the gifts of salvation which we have received at his hands. Not only that, but Christian men and women are also able to give thanks for the fact that they have the privilege of knowing to whom their thanks is going, a knowledge they share with most of the early settlers of this land. It was to this very Jesus that they turned for life, and hope, and comfort, and He stands here today offering us the same gifts.

As Canadians we have a great deal to be thankful for as we enjoy life in a land that is very much a land of milk and honey. Mind you, no one is left untouched by soaring inflation, outrageous interest rates, and our present political dilemma, to say nothing of the personal tragedies that confront us now and again. In retrospect though, few others in this world possess what we so easily take for granted. We have roofs over our head, food on our tables, clothes to wear, and money to spend. We have a vast array of natural resources, many of which still lie untouched. We have had over one hundred and fourteen years of peace in our land, and we still enjoy the basic freedoms of democracy.

For the founders of this nation, who laid the foundations for all that we have, God had a central place in their hearts and in their dealings in the world. It is perhaps time for this generation to re-assess its reasons for having God at the very centre of their lives. Just because we know more, and can do more on our own today, does not necessarily mean that faith in God is no longer needed. It seems to me that the sense of hopelessness in the troubled minds of people today is far greater than in those of the past. It seems to me that people are hungering for anything that offers some truth, some semblance of order and decency. It seems to me that people everywhere would truly give their all to know the One to whom thanks for all we have can be given.

This hope, this hunger, this search for something to grasp hold of, comes from the fact that we too are God's creations and stewards of His creation.

We have so much to be thankful for in Canada. As we gather this weekend with family and with friends, as we enjoy breaking bread together, not only in our Churches but also around our harvest tables, take a moment and do some remembering. Remember your forefathers and where their priorities lay. Remember their sacrifices, their courage, and their perserverance which ensured for them your future. Recall this God of theirs, to whom they turned for hope and comfort and life itself. Recall that Last Supper, which was the first of countless Eucharists, as Christians remembered and gave thanks and were fed. You may not be ready to accept this God, but you will at least be sharing in the traditions of your forefathers, and acknowledging that, for them, God was the one to whom their thanks was given.

May God continue to bless this land of ours, and may we all look to Him, and discover for ourselves, a true sense of thanksgiving. Have a joyous and happy holiday weekend.

FROM THE CHAMBER

By Bob Stinson

Haliburton Highlands

We talked here last week about the negative economic impact of the MNR's sudden decision to withdraw funding for snowmobile trail grooming. Our strong stand became somewhat questionable when other editorial comment and quotes from the H.C.S.A. suggested that it was now simply time that the user and the resort industry pay for the development and upkeep of trails.

We, as a Chamber, are certainly in agreement that relying on "handouts" is no way to run an industry, such as snowmobiling, but we must point out that the snowmobiler has been paying for more than his share through licence fees. The government has stated emphatically that they cannot earmark these funds for a particular use, but it has taken relatively simple arithmetic for snowmobile owners over the years to calculate what little they were getting for return for their licence dollar. Now they get nothing and are told they should have been paying all along.

Then we come to the poor lodge operator who is told he "no longer can expect a free ride." Lodge operators, surprisingly, as it may seem, are not raking in "thousands of dollars" in a lucrative winter business. Most are barely meeting expenses so far, but persisting in the hopes that we can build our tourist business in the county into more of a year round industry. It is progressing, but it still needs all the help and co-operation it can get.

Lodge operators have shown a willingness to contribute in both manpower and dollars towards any activity that will create winter business. They should be encouraged for their efforts towards improving our year round economy, rather than criticized.

Ministry of Industry & Tourism personnel continually stress to us how important long range planning is to our industry. In order to properly promote our area this winter all information on our winter events, what facilities are available at what cost, and what packages are being offered by the various lodges was supplied to the Ministry offices over a month ago. Individual resorts have also sent to press their rate schedules for the winter.

Now if only the tourism ministry could get their message to the Natural Resources Ministry they would use this kind of advance planning also. They suggest that it is a natural step that was anticipated since the funding that has represented a quarter of the H.C.S.A. budget was only "seed money". If this is the case there was certainly no reason that enough advance warning could not have been given to allow proper planning and preparation for the season that is almost upon us. The Minister owes the industry an apology - at least!

Small business week

October 25 to 31 is Small Business week across Canada and here in Haliburton County we have arranged a number of workshops pertaining to small businesses on the day of our annual meeting.

The overflow crowd that attended the E.D.C. workshop on How to Start a Small Business will recognize the name of Bob Pollock. They were so enthusiastic about his presentation that we have asked him to be our luncheon speaker and he will discuss how, when and why you should (or should not) incorporate your business. A panel made up of a representative of the chartered banks, F.B.D.B. and E.O.D.C. will talk about how to obtain financial assistance to build or upgrade your business. Ron Taylor from Georgian College and formerly with Deerhurst Inn will discuss promotion of a winter business. Other workshops will cover collections and credit, dealing with contracts, labour laws and how to deal with the beauracrats that police them. Small computers are now available in that regard.

The day is topped off with the annual meeting banquet at which Michael Perley of the Canadian Coalition on Acid Rain will be the guest speaker. He will bring us in touch with what positive steps are being taken in this very important battle and how we can help.

Registration forms are being mailed to Chamber members this week. If you are not a member and are interested in taking part in this informative day give us a call at the Chamber office, 286-1760.

Bill Seven - A threat to our human rights

When the Legislature reconvenes on October 13th, they will be dealing with Bill 7, which replaces Bill 209, "An Act to Revise and Extend Protection of Human Rights in Ontario". This Bill is an outrageous example of what a government hell bent on protecting the rights of certain minorities can do to the rights of the rest of us. This legislation takes away more rights from business people than it succeeds in providing to the people it is designed to assist. It attempts to legislate how we think, which is very dangerous grounds to be treading upon.

Some examples of what Bill 7, if passed, will do to our lives are worth looking at. Section 13 is headed as "mixed motives". If a landlord refused to rent accommodation to someone who incidentally had a mental disorder, because he felt that they did not seem to be financially responsible, they could be accused, and possibly found guilty of discrimination. Under Section 9, an employer who refused to hire a person as an executive officer of their company because he had been convicted under the Securities Act, may be judged as having discriminated. Another section would prevent a landlord from refusing accommodation on the basis of marital status. The law then would preclude any moral feeling or belief the proprietor may have.

There is, of course, much more but worst of all the powers given to the employees of the commission once they have received a complaint smack of a "Police State". They would be allowed to search and seize your records without a warrant, question you and your employees without benefit of counsel, and "Direct the party to do anything that, in the opinion of the board - ought to do to achieve compliance with the Act." In addition to this, the only elected official involved, the Minister who presently can reject the finding of the Commission's Board of Inquiry, has had that discretionary privilege removed.

According to Section 12, all adverse comments on Human Rights laws, will be forbidden so if Bill 7 is passed it will be illegal to say some of the things we have just said. It will then be obviously too late.

M.P.P., John Eakins is fighting the implementation of this unwarranted invasion of our rights. He would welcome your comments and inquiries on this matter.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Canada Post Canada Postes

It's been stretched for almost 3 years.

17 Canada

We can't stretch it any further.

You don't need reminding that almost everything costs a lot more now than it did almost 3 years ago — the time of the last postal increase.

But, can you imagine how much operating costs have risen for the postal system that serves the second largest country in the world?

The cost of operating and fueling our vast transportation network, the cost of essential equipment and the cost of our work force have all risen substantially.

In spite of our best efforts, the combined effects of these increased operating costs have brought Canada Post to the point where it does not have the financial resources necessary to follow through on important steps being taken to improve service.

Some of the steps we want to take are:

Introduce more extensive quality control aiming at a consistent mail service within Canada.

Implement a new service-monitoring process which will improve reliability.

Expand letter carrier delivery within many communities to provide more complete service.

Increase the availability of specialized mail services such as Priority Post, Special Delivery and Electronic Mail.

Taking positive action.

By soon becoming a public corporation, Canada Post will have the freedom to operate as a more responsive and efficient business, and eventually stop being a subsidized arm of government with its resulting burden on the taxpayer.

But no business can be healthy or efficient if it fails to recognize and adapt to the economic realities in which it must function.

And the present reality is that the existing postal rates do not reflect the costs involved in running Canada's mail service the way it should be run.

It is for this reason that Canada Post plans the implementation of new postal rates early next year.

Some of these planned rates can be seen in the following table:

1st Class letter in Canada	0-30 gm	30¢
1st Class letter to U.S.A.	0-30 gm	35¢
Parcel Post same city	1 kilo	$1.10
1st Class Parcel e.g. Montreal to Vancouver	1 kilo	$3.35
Special Delivery $1 plus 1st Class Postage

Canada Post has a national responsibility to provide the most reliable and complete mail service possible. The implementation of these new rates is necessary if revenues are to be brought more in line with operating expenses... necessary to ease the burden of a deficit on the taxpayer. And most important of all, necessary to allow Canada Post to become, through improved service, one of the best mail systems in the world.

Canada Post-setting things straight for the future.

New executive at gallery

A new board of directors has been elected for the Rails' End Gallery in Haliburton Village. The election took place at the gallery's annual meeting held September 22.

Ruth Gorrie was elected president of the organization for the coming year. She replaces Donna Monk who stepped down after one year.

The position of vice president is as yet unfilled. However, it is expected that a member of the board of directors will be selected to fill this post in the near future. Wayne Wood will serve as the gallery's treasurer.

Other members of the new board include Judy Phillips, Barb Bolin, Michael Butz, Marg Fedorchuk, Dorothy Kinsman, Alan Oakley, Stephen Phillips, David Stephenson, Joan Stinson, Donna VanderWekken, Marie Wallace and Catherine Wilkinson.

According to the gallery's new curator, Lucinda St. Pierre, the position of secretary for the gallery is still vacant. The post is currently being filled by Debbie Bates who will be leaving at the end of the month after a year and a half. The position is a fulltime one.

The activities at the gallery are expanding somewhat this year as the new curator will also be involved in providing art courses, Lucinda St. Pierre will be teaching an art course for high school students at the gallery. The course has already attracted 17 students. The students taking part will receive a credit if they successfully complete the course.

Method of land sale questioned

The method used by the municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden for selling township property was described as unfair during the September 24 meeting. Township resident and real estate salesman J.O. Jackson appeared before the council to express his concern on the matter.

He noted that in the past the council had engaged the services of a local appraiser to determine the potential value of the property being offered for sale and then advertised the lots for sale by tender. Jackson pointed out that the appraiser, Dean Elliott, was also a real estate agent. He described the situation as "unfair" and suggested that if the council wished to continue using this method, that an appraiser from outside the area be used.

However, Jackson also suggested that the council consider a method of selling being proposed by the Haliburton County Real Estate Board. He said that under the board's plan, the council would be given three free appraisals on the land it wished to sell. The selling price would then be set at the average of the three and the property would be listed through all the agents in the county under the Multiple Listing Service (MLS).

Jackson said the agent or agency which sold the property would receive a ten percent commission when the transaction was completed.

The council agreed to take the suggestion under advisement.

HHSS scores first victory

Four students from Haliburton Highlands Secondary School have taken the first step on the long road to ultimate success in the Reach For The Top television program.

The HHSS team taped their first program of the new season last week and emerged victorious over Barrie High School. The foursome from the Highlands defeated their opposition by a wide 255-85 margin.

Staff advisor for the team, Frank Wallace, had special praise for Mike Anderson of the team for his efforts. "Mike was responsible for the largest number of points amassed by an individual on the team," Mr. Wallace noted. Other members of the team included Beth Cooper, Randy Vanderstarren and Lee Potter.

The students return to the CKVR studios for the taping of the next round October 13. The team will have to score three wins at the local level before advancing to regional play-offs against Toronto area teams.

The program that was taped last week will be aired this Saturday evening at 6 p.m. on CKVR television, Channel 3.

Wood cutting field day draws large crowd

A crowd of over 125 was on hand Saturday to learn the intricacies of harvesting trees from the forest. The event, sponsored by the Canadian Forestry Institute of Chalk River with the co-operation of the Minden District office of the Ministry of Natural Resources, covered all aspects of cutting and removing trees from a woodlot.

In addition to woodlot owners from throughout the county, a busload of students from the forestry course at Sir Sandford Fleming College in Lindsay were on hand.

The morning session, starting at 10:30, opened with a demonstration of safety methods in handling a chain saw. Various items of safety equipment were on display and demonstrated. Chain saw maintenance and chain sharpening was also shown to those in attendance.

The audience then moved into the bush for a number of practical examples of tree felling. They were shown the proper method of bringing a tree down, what to do if a tree becomes hung-up in the branches of adjacent trees, and the proper method for limbing the downed trees.

During the afternoon session the participants watched as operators showed the proper method of skidding logs in the bush. According to MNR spokesman Dave Leader, the purpose of the demonstration was to show how the logs can be moved with minimal damage to the standing trees in the bush.

Five methods of skidding, from the use of horses to large mechanical skidders, farm tractor attachments and mini-skidders were shown to those in attendance. The small skidders attracted a great deal of attention from the crowd. Representatives of the companies which supply the skidding equipment were on hand to answer questions about their products.

At a central collection point a log cutting, splitting and loading unit driven by a power-take-off from a tractor was also shown in operation.

The demonstration of small size and farm tractor skidders attracted the interest of many woodlot owners.

Leader said the interest in the displays was high, perhaps a reaction to the fact that more people than ever are turning to wood as a source of heat.

The MNR spokesman said it was unlikely the field day would be repeated in the near future however, the ministry may hold a day geared to woodlot management next year.

Retired teachers hold yearly meeting

One hundred and fifty retired teachers attended the all day annual meeting of District 18, Superannuated Teachers of Ontario at Wig-A-Mog Inn on September 30. District 18 comprises the three units from Peterborough, Victoria and Haliburton Counties.

The business of the organization was conducted in the morning, followed by a luncheon, and guest speakers. Mr. Clare Perry, the Provincial Secretary of Superannuated Teachers of Ontario, was introduced by Bob Herlihey. Mr. Perry spoke about the quality of life enjoyed by superannuated teachers, their goodwill committee's work, their travel organization, and their new health insurance plan which was so quickly set up with Confederation Life following the collapse of Co-operative Health Services.

Mrs. Sylvia Sutherland, well known moderator of a talk-show on CHEX TV, was introduced by Miss Cora Bailey who was a former President of the Federation of Women Teachers of Ontario. Sylvia had been a Canadian Representative at United Nations and spoke of the accomplishments and the frustrations of that organization. She was thanked by Mrs. Gweneth Hughes of Haliburton and presented with the book by Nila Reynolds, "In Quest of Yesterday."

The retiring President, Bob Herlihey of Minden, introduced the executive officers for the next term. They are: President - John Bates, Lindsay; 1st Vice President - Helen Wright, Peterborough; 2nd Vice President - J. McNeil, Lindsay; Secretary Treasurer - Florence Presly, Lindsay; Membership Secretary - Orme Jackson, Peterborough; Directors - Gweneth Hughes, Haliburton; Ross Sturgess, Lindsay; Arnold Noftall, Peterborough.

Redmen extend winning streak to 3 games-defeat Lindsay 29-7

The Redmen of Haliburton Highlands Secondary School continue with their unbeaten streak, stretching it to three games last Friday in Lindsay. The locals defeated LCVI by a commanding 29-7 margin.

Once again the Redmen struck early and held onto the lead to dominate play throughout the game. The first score for the Redmen came on a Lindsay fumble as a result of bad snap. Brent Moxam scored from the four yard line for the first TD of the game. It was converted by Tim Davies.

Into the second quarter Rob Metcalf blocked a punt by Lindsay and Ernie Mosgrove recovered the loose ball. He ran 25 yards for the second Redmen major. Davies converted once again.

Before the half ended the magic of Davies and Hatkoski pair clicked again with a 20 yard pass play to Mike Hatkoski in the end zone. Tim Davies converted the TD for the Redmen to give them a 21-6 edge as the first half of the game ended.

Lindsay High School scored a single point early in the second half.

They also forced the Redmen to their end of the field but the team stood fast with an excellent goal-line stand. Key tackles were thrown by Rick Choy, Tim Beaver, Ron Yake and Shane Blakey to hold the Lindsay attack at the Haliburton six yard line.

In the closing stanza, Kevin Shapiera scored for the Redmen from the six yard line Again Davies converted to add the extra point.

Before the game was over a field goal attempt by Davies went wide and the Redmen picked up a single point instead of the intended two.

Lindsay visits Haliburton this Thursday seeking to even the score. Game time at the high school is 2 p.m.

Damaging relations with the U.S.

- by Bill Scott, M.P. -

The federal government's policy of economic nationalism and its energy policies are coming under increasing criticism from the United States, and the Prime Minister is allowing the situation to develop into a blood feud between our two countries.

U.S. Under Secretary of State for economic affairs Myer Rashish said last week that relations between Canada and the U.S. "are sliding dangerously towards crisis".

Great Britain has now joined the U.S. in criticizing our economic policies, and last week the Canadian Bar Association blasted the foreign Investment Review (FIRA), saying that the federal government is damaging the national economy and giving Canada a bad name among foreign investors.

The main thrust of the criticism against FIRA, and against our new energy policies, is that they discriminate against U.S. and British investors. Energy Minister Marc Lalonde added new fuel to the controversy last Thursday when he responded to the complaints aired publicly by President Ronald Reagan and Secretary of State Alexander Haig.

Lalonde said that the U.S. has been told that the Canadianization program is there to stay, and "In our view, there is no point in them pursuing this any further".

However, there is plenty of evidence to suggest that the United States will indeed pursue it further, and the U.S. Congress is already considering retaliatory legislation against Canadian investors.

The main reason for the anger being expressed by the United States and Great Britain is that Canada is partner to an international agreement that allows for free flow of investment capital across borders of the signatory countries.

While Canada takes full advantage of the terms of the agreement, our government has erected barriers to investment capital flowing from the other member countries.

The Canadian Bar Association said that FIRA, established in 1972 to screen all applications by foreign investors to buy into Canadian firms, has baffled and frustrated foreign investors through delays and uncertainty.

The Bar Association brief to the federal cabinet says that many of the foreign investors are kept waiting for up to two years before the cabinet makes a decision.

The brief also stated that the federal government also advertises during the waiting period that certain businesses are for sale so that Canadian investors can get the jump on foreign investors.

While I agree that we must exercise great care in screening and assessing requests by foreign investors to purchase Canadian companies, I believe that we must also honour the agreement that we have with other countries, such as the U.S. and Great Britain.

We can't possibly gain anything by "hanging tough" and refusing to engage in meaningful dialogue with the U.S. over our differences. We are in danger of setting the stage for retaliatory measures between our two countries that could do irreparable damage to the good relations that have existed between us for so long.

Volunteers prepare curling rink

Volunteer labour is once again being pressed into service to ready the Minden curling rink for opening is less than a month away.

Work parties of enthusiastic volunteers have been scurrying about the new structure Wednesday evenings putting the finishing touches on the club room and rink area. According to club president Jim Garbutt, 20 volunteers were on hand last Wednesday. "We certainly appreciated that kind of enthusiasm," Garbutt commented. "I think the curlers who have missed out on a year's activity in their own building are looking forward eagerly to the opening of the new season."

Garbutt said that all past members and those interested in curling this season for the first time are invited to join the Wednesday evening brigade. "It doesn't matter if you're not handy with a hammer or saw," he commented, "we'll find jobs for everyone."

The curling season is expected to begin November first. Anyone interested in taking part is invited to contact Penny Obee or Bill Roodenburg.

Tax will net $7 billion by 1986

- by John Eakins, M.P.P. -

In a recent column I drew your attention to the ad valorem tax on gasoline, and I would like to continue the discussion this week.

In response to criticism of this tax, the Treasurer of Ontario recently stressed that Ontario's own energy-related expenditures will rise dramatically due to the pricing agreement between Alberta and the Federal Government. Just as the ordinary consumer will have to pay more to drive his car or heat his home, the Ontario Government will find it more costly to heat schools and hospitals, build roads, and so forth.

The Treasurer estimates that the additional energy costs to the Province will be about $4.6 billion by 1986, while revenue gains from both the ad valorem gasoline tax and other provincial taxes will total at most only $1.8 billion. According to his Ministry's forecast, the Government will face a cumulative shortfall of some $2.7 billion.

The obvious implication here is that the inflationary impact of price hikes resulting from the oil pricing agreement on the Ontario Government's own budget somehow justifies the imposition of a percentage (ad valorem) tax directly on consumers. In the Treasurer's own words, "This forecast of revenues and expenditures for Ontario (proves) that opposition claims regarding ad valorem yields are highly unwarranted."

An analysis made by my Party suggests that it is the Treasurer's forecast which is incorrect. According to our calculations, he has underestimated the likely revenue gains from the ad valorem tax over the next five years by over $6 billion. We estimate that the ad valorem tax will net Ontario not between $800 million and $1 billion, but a total of over $7 billion by 1986.

Moreover, the Treasurer acknowledges that when the inflationary pressures resulting from the oil pricing agreement have worked their way through the tax system, the province will yield additional revenue of "perhaps $400 to $800 million" by 1986. This forecast is also expected to prove low as higher energy costs come to be reflected in higher wage settlements, and higher prices, which in turn will boost income and sales tax revenues to the Ontario Treasury.

The forecast game, however, is not the real issue. Whether or not the Alberta-Ottawa oil agreement augments Ontario's debt load in the future, the ad valorem tax is an unwarranted tax burden on the people of this Province. In human terms, it is manifestly unjust at a time when people are being battered by inflation, high interest rates, food costs, etc. As a silent, automatically escalating tax, the ad valorem both undermines the democratic principle of accountability and exacerbates the inflation crisis.

SENIOR LEAGUE

by Bert Harrison

I will try and tell you what happened last week at the Crest, where you feel right at home and you're treated the very best.

Jim Cooper took the service Tuesday morning. Rev. Brubaker spoke to us on Sunday night. They sure know how to tell you what is wrong and what is right. I wish more would come out to hear these fine men, service Sunday night, Tuesday morning at ten.

The ladies are getting ready for their Christmas Bazaar. With the help, with some items, made by our Teddy Carr. When it takes place I don't remember, but I think it is some time in November.

Monday night is movie night. All watches who wishes. One interesting movie showed how they make bone china dishes. Thursday night is music night here at the Crest.

This week we had Fred Ballard as a welcome guest. He played some fine selections on organ and piano. We all thought it really nice for him to come and play so. Wednesday night is games night. You get so engrossed then you discuss afterwards who has won or lost. Thursday afternoon a group comes in and brings a lovely lunch, and of course always they are a jolly bunch.

This week it was the Kinmount ladies from the Horticultural society who brought over a lovely lunch with different variety. We would like to thank all these kind ladies for going to all this trouble, but every time you bring a lunch, we're right there on the double.

Wednesday afternoon Doris took us for a ride to see the lovely colours, all round the County up to Haliburton, then West Guilford, Maple Lake. The colour was so beautiful your breath would almost take. Then back to Minden we did come, were treated to ice cream. Then back home to Hyland Crest again, it seemed like just a dream.

Friday afternoon is sing song time With Norma Barron playing the music, Grace Coburn leads the singing, Mrs. Coburn has a lovely voice much joy to us she is bringing.

I will close this letter now I think I've done my best, To tell what has happened here at Hyland Crest.

Until next time.

Also there will be no 17¢ or 35¢ Christmas Stamps, all new issues come out in January. If you wish to protest this, here is an address where you may send your letter -- Minister Responsible for Rate Representation, Canadian Post Corporation, Sir Alexander Campbell Building, Ottawa. K1A 0B1. Perhaps if enough letters arrive there they may pay attention.

Some friendships resemble a bubble,
Quite pretty as long as they last,
Yet at the first pin-prick of trouble
Their charm is a thing of the past.
But yours is a friendship I'll cherish
Each moment 'till life ebbs away,
The cares of this world through it perish;
'Tis a song in my heart day by day.

Hint of the Week

Spring is busting out all over - In winter when flowers are scarce, go out and prune some twigs or branches of forsythia, crab apple, hawthorn, lilac and other flowring trees and shrubs. Put the stems in a bucket of warm water, then drop in a cotton ball saturated with ammonia. Put the pail and branches in a plastic bag and tie securely. Soon the ammonia fumes will force blooms on the branches.

If at night you can't sleep, don't count sheep, talk to the Shepherd.
